TRINITY CONNECTION

NOVEMBER 24, 2023

Dear friends in Christ,

Even though many of you will have finished the last of the Thanksgiving turkey by the time you read this letter, as I write Thanksgiving is still two days away. So, I have family, food, and gratitude on my mind.

One of my favorite Bible verses on being thankful is found in Colossians 3:15. "And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in one body. And be thankful." This translation is from the New Revised Standard Version which is the version that we read most often in worship and is the version I use in my daily reading.

However, I recently read this same verse in the New English Translation, which claims a slightly different emphasis based on a very close word by word translation from the original Greek language. In the NET, this same verse reads like this. "Let the peace of Christ be in control in your heart (for you were in fact called as one body to this peace), and be thankful."

For me, the biggest difference between the two translations is one letter. In the first we see the word hearts, note the "s" at the end of the word compared to the singular word heart without an "s" in the second translation. In the first version I hear an invitation to let the peace of Christ rule in our individual hearts and to be thankful because of that individual peace. The second implies a body sharing one heart! In the English language it is common to use the phrase to be "of the same mind" to describe agreeing with one another. Here we are invited to be "of the same heart." One living, grateful heart in the body of Christ.

The gratitude that we share as brothers and sisters in Christ of course belongs to us individually, but how much more wonderful that we are invited to be a community of grateful people. Gratitude is a core value that we share together. This power of this shared heart reminds me of the Zig Ziglar story about the single draft horse that can pull 800 pounds. One would assume that adding a second horse would double the pulling capacity. However, if a second horse is added and they are trained to pull together, they can pull over four times the load. Gratitude grows exponentially when we practice it together.

So, as we enter this season of many holidays may we all hear the words of Colossians 3:15. "Let the peace of Christ be in control of your heart, and be thankful."

Peace and best wishes,
Pastor Tom Opoien
